

We all care about internet safety for our students. There are many resources available for parents, teachers, and community members. Local and regional law enforcement agencies are usually available for information and assistance.

We would like to highlight a website that you may find valuable.

NetSmartz is supported by the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children and Boys & Girls Clubs of America and has resources for students, parents, educators and law enforcement.

Many of their materials are also available in Spanish.

From their site

“Parents all over the world are concerned about keeping their children safer, both on- and offline. In recognition of this, both NetSmartz Workshop and the Take 25 Campaign offer their family safety resources in Spanish. While you are celebrating National Hispanic Heritage Month (September 15 – October 15) make sure to check out these Spanish language materials and pass them on to anyone who may be able to use them, because helping children stay safer sounds good in every language!”
